

COMMERCIAL: BOSTON CITY CLUB

10 Summer Street
Boston, MA

This project was to design a social club for the employees and residents of the Downtown Crossing area of Boston. Social clubs began in England in the 1800's. It was important to maintain some traditional aspects of a social club while also making it relevant to this generation. This was carried out via the textures of matte vs. shiny, as opposed to old vs. new. The decision to incorporate a bowling green was inspired by a recent trip to the UK where almost every park had designated a space for the sport.

These images were rendered using AutoCAD, Sketchup, Photoshop, and hand rendering.
